Empty Bowls Launches Swanky Bowls

Dorset, VT—On Saturday, March 29th, between 6 and 8 pm, Empty Bowls at Long Trail School is collaborating with the Southern Vermont Arts Center and Eric Nathan on a fine art auction, unlike any other. Over thirty area artists of all media, including jewelry makers, architects, fiber artist, ceramicists, glass blowers and others, have created beautiful, one-of-kind pieces inspired by the theme “bowl”. Among the artists represented are Jen Black, Don Cook, Susan Coons, Julie Currie, Anna Dibble, Anharad Edson, Lyn Hogan Fay, Bob Gasparetti, Stacy Gates, Ramsay Gourd, Steve Holman, Betsy Hubner, Simone Hughes, Les Jorgenson, Karen Krasny, Melissa Kristiansen, Susan Leader, Kate Miskovsky, Nina Mooney, Jane Ogden, Roger and Ellen Questel, Rebecca Raymond, Lauren Silver, Jen Soderberg, Amy Thebault, Andrew Weil, Doris Haroon Woodward and others. Eric Nathan will auction off their unique and fun creations, while Hub Poelmann will provide a smashing array of food. Tickets are $20 and reservations can be made by contacting Val at vvass@longtrailsschool.org or calling 802.867.5717 x157. All proceeds will benefit this year’s Empty Bowl recipients: Bennington Coalition for the Homeless, Bennington County Meals on Wheels, KIND of MEMS, Emergency Need Fund of the Interfaith Council and the Community Food Cupboard. The following Saturday, on April 5th, the traditional Empty Bowls Dinner will take place between 5 and 8 pm at Long Trail School, featuring wild and colorful bowls made by the community and soups generously donated by area restaurants. Tickets for the April 5th event are currently available at the Northshire Bookstore.
